Like why did it take reading half the book for me to find out Rhiannon was human. This was fun and an enjoyable way to spend a few hours. Unfortunately for Rhiannon Gryffald, she and her cousins Barrie a journalist a The world in which you live is not the world you think it is.

The romance was pretty instant, the characters were relatively single dimensional and the negativity portrayed about Hollywood and its inhabitants was pretty harsh and stereotypical.

I'm not sure if I missed a prior series for world-building or if there just wasn't enough back story going in but I didn't care for Keeper of the Night and only read six chapters before I got frustrated and just gave up. So a vampire Keeper can somewhat become a vampire.
