The archbishop emeritus of Washington is no longer a cardinal. Vigano's accusations come as Francis and his church are trying to contain a quickly escalating sexual abuse crisis that has spread from Australia to Pennsylvania. On 21 February of the same year he received the red hat from John Paul II, in the most crowded Consistory in the history of the Church: This means that for almost all cases, candidates were examined during the evening. Priests await the arrival of Pope Francis at St. Vigano foisted Francis right into the fray. In the first month of the year, McCarrick left the house near the seminary of St. Ignace since he was already over 80 years old he did not enter the Conclave and therefore did not take part in the votes that led to the election of Cardinal Jorge Mario Bergoglio on the evening of March 17. A statement that has been denied by audio-video documents and dozens of articles.
